

STOCKHOLM INTERNATIONAL
PEACE RESEARCH INSTITUTE

You are cordially invited to a high-level panel discussion co-organized by SIPRI and the European Centre for Development Policy Management (ECDPM) on

The changing nature of support to peacebuilding

During the past 25 years the international peacebuilding community has been broadly reliant on a relatively small number of supporters, namely European countries and the European Union (EU) institutions, which have played a highly influential role in backing peacebuilding politically, through policy commitments and with financial disbursements. Based on the case studies of Germany, Sweden, the United Kingdom and the EU institutions, what key trends characterize European policy and financial support to peacebuilding? What are the most significant factors driving change and continuity over time in European support for peacebuilding? And what are the implications of these trends for future support to international peacebuilding?

This panel discussion will address the key findings of the recently published ECDPM report Supporting Peacebuilding in Times of Change: A Synthesis of Four Case Studies, and brings together expertise from the ECDPM, SIPRI, the British Government's Department for International Development and the Swedish Ministry for Foreign Affairs.

Thursday, 8 November 2018, 14.00–15.30 at Medelhavsmuseet, Fredsgatan 2, Stockholm

Coffee will be served at 13.30 and the discussion will begin at 14.00.

Panellists

Beverley Warmington,
Director of Conflict,
Humanitarian and Security
Division, Department for International Development,
United Kingdom

Andrew Sherriff,
Head of European External
Affairs Programme, European Centre for Development Policy
Management

Johannes Oljelund,
Director-General for International Development
Cooperation, Swedish
Ministry for Foreign Affairs

Moderator

Dan Smith,
Director of SIPRI

This event is by invitation only.

For further information please contact Alexandra Manolache, Communications Officer,
Tel: 0766 286 133, Email: alexandra.manolache@sipri.org.